Who may make such decisions?

The Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen Board of Directors will be responsible for making relevant decisions. The Board will have the power to delegate some of the relevant decision making to the Chief Officer, for example, small pieces of work which do not have a substantive impact on staff or financial resources.

All relevant decisions, including those delegated to the Chief Officer, will be recorded in the minutes of the Board meeting at which the decision was made. The minutes of all Board meetings are held on the Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen electronic shared drive. All minutes of decisions made at public meetings are published on Healthwatch

Once a decision has been made, the staff team is responsible for implementation and delivery, with an agreed reporting process to Board.

The Board of Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen will reconsider a decision where new data has become available, or if circumstances change, which might prompt it to reach a different decision, or where there is evidence that this decision making process was not followed.

Involving lay persons or volunteers in such decisions

How are decisions made?

The potential scope of the work of Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen is vast - it has a responsibility for health and social care services for all adults, children and young people in the borough, including those who are most vulnerable or may be excluded. This means we must prioritise the issues we focus on. The main sources to inform our work programme are likely to come from:

- People's experiences of health and social care services that they share with us.
- Evidence we proactively collect about specific areas of concern through the stories and enquiries we hear directly, including deliberative research, public surveys and polls.
- National and local data sets that evidence issues affecting large numbers of the local population and the most excluded.

This list is not exhaustive and other relevant sources of data will be considered.

In order to prioritise, Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen Board will carefully consider all sources of information and decide where it can add most value. Areas to be considered include but are not limited to:

- That the issues fit with our organisational role and responsibilities, ensuring that Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen delivers to its statutory remit.
- How much the issue matters to local people, it must be something they care about as we are here to be the voice of people in health and social care.
- How much change Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen can bring about. This enables us to make sure we are choosing areas where we can have the greatest impact. This is important to deliver the greatest return for our budget, maintain our independence and ensure we bring issues to the attention of the health and care system.
- Does the change need to come from Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen - so we aren't focusing on things that others can do more easily and effectively?

- Finally, the Board of Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen will consider our work as a full set of priorities, as together they need to have the greatest impact for people using health and social care services.

Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen holds three public meetings a year and minutes will be available via Healthwatch Blackburn with Darwen's website.
